

From the Vicarage

As a Priest I am used to dealing with wedding couples who come to arrange a church service. I have all the necessary forms and so far I have always been able to answer their many and varied questions. I have run marriage preparation courses and have worked with a number of different requests including incorporating part of a London Opera Company to sing extracts at the marriage of their principle female lead. All these things you might say are in a days work. What I have discovered from being involved with my own daughter's wedding is that there's a great deal more to it than just the service.

Getting it right for the big day draws on the talents of many different people, from the making of the dress, to the arranging of the flowers. Each talented individual is called upon to play their part in making the whole a day to remember. As if this were not enough, people keep changing their minds about various arrangements. It's a wonder that anyone manages to get through it all! Having said that, some members of the family seem to be enjoying themselves enormously.

We all rely at times on the skills of others to solve our problems be they medical, intellectual or financial. Yet how often do we stop to consider the talents that God has given us and how we are using them. In the Gospel of St. Matthew at the end of Chapter 28 Jesus issues a challenge to his Disciples. He calls on them to spread the Good News throughout the world. To do this they will have to identify their talents and put them to use.

St. Paul in his first letter to the Church in Corinth Chapter 12 goes into detail about the 'Gifts of the Spirit' these are those given by God to each of us. Paul acknowledges that we all have different gifts and it is only when we come together that they can all contribute to the whole work of the church. He likens them to the Body which has many parts all with different functions that come together to make the complete person. The disciples worked together to create the early church by each of them contributing their gifts. So we today can pool our talents and work together to grow the Kingdom of God in our communities.

As we celebrate the feast of Pentecost this month let us remember how the Holy Spirit transformed the lives of the early believers. It gave them the courage to come out into the open and proclaim their faith to everyone they met. It encouraged them to work together to build up the early church. It enabled them to take on tasks that they would not have thought possible. Well, we too can reenergise our lives by opening our hearts and minds to the Spirit. If we are prepared to let him work in us we can combine our talents and grow our church.

This Pentecost let us pray together for a revival in our church. Let us ask God to add to our number that we might find the talent and inspiration to build a better world where everyone is not only created equal but is treated as such.

May God Bless you all

David

The Bible

What do we know about the Bible we read every day? This month I am starting a series of articles about our Bible beginning with an outline of what it contains. I hope you will find it as interesting as I did. If there are other issues about the church that you would like to see included on this page then please let me know and I will try to put them in.

The Bible is not just one book, but an entire library, with stories, songs, poetry, letters and history, as well as literature that might more obviously qualify as 'religious'. The Christian Bible has two main sections, the Old Testament and the New Testament. The Old Testament is the original Hebrew Bible, the sacred scriptures of the Jewish faith, written at different times between about 1200 and 165 BC. The New Testament books were written by Christians in the first century AD.

The Hebrew Bible has 39 books, written over a long period of time, and is the literary archive of the ancient nation of Israel. It was traditionally arranged in three sections.

The Law

The first five books, Genesis to Deuteronomy. They are not 'law' in a modern Western sense: Genesis is a book of stories, with nothing remotely like rules and regulations, and though the other four do contain community laws they also have many narratives. The Hebrew word for Law ('Torah') means 'guidance' or 'instruction', and that could include stories offering everyday examples of how people were meant to live as well as legal requirements. These books were later called the 'Pentateuch', and tradition attributed them to Moses. Some parts undoubtedly date from that period, but as things changed old laws were updated and new ones produced, and this was the work of later editors over several centuries.

The Prophets

The Prophets is the largest section of the Hebrew Bible, and has two parts ('former prophets' and 'latter prophets').

The books of 'latter prophets' preserve sayings and stories of religious and political activists ('prophets') who served as the spiritual conscience of the nation throughout its history, reminding people of the social values that would reflect the character of God. Some books are substantial (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel), others are much shorter (Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi). Sometimes, the prophets could be mime artists and dramatists, accompanying their actions by short spoken messages, often delivered in poetic form. These were the sound bites of their day, which made it easy for others to remember them and then write them down. The 'former prophets' consist of Joshua, Judges, 1-2 Samuel, 1-2 Kings. They are history books, but what makes them also 'prophets' is that they not only record information, they interpret it, explaining its significance in relation to other events in the history of Israel, and of the wider world of their day.

The Writings

These include Psalms (songs, prayers and liturgies for worship), Proverbs (sayings of homespun wisdom), Job (a drama that explores the nature of suffering), plus the 'five scrolls' ('Megiloth') which were grouped together because each had associations with a particular religious festival: Ruth (the Jewish Feast of Weeks, also called Pentecost), Song of Solomon (Passover), Ecclesiastes (Tabernacles), Lamentations (Destruction of Jerusalem), and Esther (Purim). This section also includes the last books of the Hebrew Bible to be written: Ezra, Nehemiah, and 1-2 Chronicles (all history books), and Daniel (visions of a better world).

The New Testament has 27 books, written between about 50 and 100 AD, and falling naturally into two sections: the Gospels, which tell the story of Jesus (Matthew, Mark, Luke and John); and the Letters (or epistles) - written by various Christian leaders to provide guidance for the earliest church communities.

The Letters

Letters were the natural way for itinerant church leaders to communicate with their converts, and the earliest ones were written before the Gospels. With some exceptions (Romans, Hebrews), they were not meant to be formal presentations of Christian belief, but offered advice to people who were working out how to express their commitment to Jesus in ways that would be relevant to the many different cultural contexts in which they found themselves throughout the Roman empire. Reading them can be like listening to one half of a conversation, as the writers give answers to questions sent to them either verbally or in writing. Paul was the most prolific writer of such letters, though he was not the only one.

The Gospels

The Gospels were written to present the life and teachings of Jesus in ways that would be appropriate to different readerships, and for that reason are not all the same. They were not intended to be biographies of Jesus, but selective accounts that would demonstrate his significance for different cultures. The first three are effectively different editions of the same materials, and for that reason are known as the 'synoptic gospels'. The writer of Luke also wrote the Acts of the Apostles, which tells the story of how Christianity spread from being a small group of Jewish believers in the time of Jesus to becoming a worldwide faith in less than a generation.

The New Testament concludes with the book of Revelation, which begins with a series of letters to seven churches in the area of Asia Minor (modern Turkey), but then offers a visionary presentation of the meaning of all things, from creation to the end of the world.

The sheer diversity of literature in the Bible is one of the secrets of its continuing popularity through the centuries. There is something for all moods and many different cultures. Its message is not buried in religious jargon only accessible to either believers or scholars, but reflects the issues that people struggle with in daily life. Despite their different emphases, all its authors shared the conviction that this world and its affairs are not just a haphazard sequence of random coincidences, but are the forum of God's activity - a God who (unlike the God of the philosophers) is not remote or unknowable, but a personal being who can be known by ordinary people.

Council Tax Benefits

RESIDENTS are being urged to come forward if they think they are missing out on council tax benefits.

Staffordshire Moorlands District Council cabinet member for regeneration Andrew Hart is reminding taxpayers if they are having difficulty with their bill that the council may be able to help. Councillor Hart said: "We're very aware that with bills being due from 1 April residents may face a financial strain. But if people are having difficulty paying their bill, it is very important that they don't ignore the problem.

"I'm urging residents to come and speak to us, because we may be able to help. If you pay council tax, have a low income and your savings and investments are £16,000 or below, you may be eligible for council tax benefit.

"Also, certain categories of resident such as full-time students and patients resident in hospital for example, may qualify for a discount."

Nationally, up to 1.4 million eligible older people miss out on council tax benefit, resulting in up to £580million remaining unclaimed each year.

Councillor Gill Heath, cabinet member for finance and resources, said: "We set up a hotline for people to contact the council if they are having difficulty paying their council tax. Calls to the 0845 605 3011 number have been few, yet we know there are district residents who still have difficulties and haven't contacted us. Let me stress that - there are a number of council taxpayers who are eligible for assistance but do not apply. I'm urging people to come forward now - we're here to listen and help if we can."

The district council collected 99.07 per cent of council tax by 31 March, and in doing so is one of around 20 top performing local tax collection authorities amongst all 354 billing authorities in the country. It is committed to ensuring that those who pay their council tax regularly and promptly do not have to pay for those who won't pay.

Councillor Heath said: "We put in a lot of very hard work to ensure our council tax collection rates stand shoulder-to-shoulder with the best councils in the country. In doing so, we are able to keep administration costs down, which ultimately means we are able to keep council tax bills down. It is important that council tax is paid regularly and on time to help keep collection costs down for the benefit of all council taxpayers."

Residents who feel they might be eligible for council tax benefits should contact the council via 0845 605 3011, visit www.staffsmoorlands.gov.uk/missingout, or call in at one-stop shops in Biddulph, Cheadle or Leek to see if they qualify.

Longnor

St. Bartholomew's Church News

On the 12th April I attended a rural day at

Alton Village Hall to listen to presentations made on country topics. One interesting piece of information came from the Rural Officer for the West Midlands region. He told the meeting that as an area we were seeing young people leaving the villages to move into the towns and older people moving from the towns into our villages. I am sure this is nothing new to us but it does have implications for our schools. As numbers drop and young families move out so our schools stand in danger of being closed. We need to do all that we can to encourage young families to come to our village and not to move away when they are here. We need young people to keep our communities stable. I would ask you all to pray for an increase in young families in order to keep our school open for future generations.

Parish Share? What is it? How Much?

Someone in the parish recently asked this question and was amazed at the reply. Quarnford Church like all other parish churches has to pay an annual fee to the Diocese. Up until now Quarnford has always managed to do this but it is becoming increasingly difficult.

The amount to be paid in 2008 is £622.65 EACH MONTH. In addition to this is the day to day maintenance and running of the church and churchyard which regularly increases and will continue to do so with the repairs to the roof. Nobody likes paying the parish share but it has to be done.

St. Paul's Church News

At our APCM Miss Belfield our church treasurer resigned. We are all deeply grateful for the many years hard work that she has given to the church as its treasurer. Miss Belfield remains as our Organist and we look forward to her playing at our services. We are now, however, in urgent need of a new treasurer to continue where Miss Belfield has left off. At Present Miss McNicol is looking after the church accounts as our church warden. If you are interested in the vacant post please contact either Miss McNicol or the Vicar who will be pleased to give you an outline of what is involved. The Diocese offers training for new treasurers and Miss Belfield has indicated that she would be willing to give the new treasurer the benefit of her experience.

At the same meeting Mrs. Battram stepped down as church warden for a year and her place has been taken for 2008 by Mrs. Bessie Kidd. We are looking for more people to join our PCC and help us in the running of our beautiful Church. If you are interested and willing to attend 5 to 6 meetings a year please contact the Vicar who will be delighted to hear from you.

Flash School

At the end of last term we said goodbye to Mrs Kincey who has taken up a new appointment. She was presented with a framed photograph of a much loved view from the office window at school. The children hope that she will return to open the refurbished cloakrooms she and the children designed.

We would also like to welcome Mrs Wendy Kenny who has joined our staff for this term.

The school is sponsoring a window in church for the Flower Festival in June.

All children up to the age of 11 can enter our flower colouring competition at a cost of £1 per entry.

Our first summer visit was linked to our Science work on Light and Sound. We arrived in Halifax to the same weather we had left in Flash! However the welcome we received at the Eureka museum made up for this. We travelled inside the ear and into the mouth as well exploring light and sound. A great day out enjoyed by all.

Our Rose Queen will be crowned on Saturday May 10th beginning at 1.30 pm in the church followed by a Summer Fair in the village hall. The school is providing a food hamper as a raffle prize, this we hope will be overflowing. We are also holding a photographic competition for children and adults based on the theme "Our Locality". Bring your photographs with you on the day.

The PCC have drawn up a list of work to be carried out at the Church and we are now waiting for our Architect to help us draw up a Faculty Application so that we can get repairs under way over the summer. We are currently exploring how we might get grant funding to have our church repaired. As this is something that all the community can use we hope to be able to fund much of the work through community grants.

News from Hollinsclough School

Last year we applied to the Woodland Trust for a free hedge and copse tree planting kit. We were successful in our bid and a pack of about thirty plants arrived for us to put around the school grounds. Hazel Winder and Any Shaw, Peak Park Rangers, supported the children with this task showing them how to achieve the maximum benefit from the new plants.

Michelle Ibbotson, from Staffordshire Moorlands District Council, came in to talk to the children about the importance of recycling. Having already collected an average day's waste the children had to safely sort it into bags, weigh it and log the results onto a recording sheet. The results of the audit will now be used to determine which recycling bins the school will be issued with.

The PTA is busy planning for this year's school fete which will be on Saturday 21st June at 1p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend so please come along to enjoy all the fun. There will be a Fell Race, Pet Show, Fairground rides and lots of other interesting things.

May and June. Soft syllables, gentle names for the two best months in the garden year: cool, misty mornings gently burned away with a warming spring sun, followed by breezy afternoons and chilly nights. The discussion of philosophy is over; it's time for work to begin.

From the Manse

Dear Friends,

It was cold and draughty standing in Spring Gardens in Buxton as I tried to persuade people to sign Amnesty International cards to be sent to China. People walked by muffled up. I couldn't blame them for not wanting to stop and find out more from this manic preacher who was shouting something about "human rights". Yet, despite the chill wind, some people did stop. They signed a card on behalf of AI's prisoners of conscience and spoke of their concern for what's happening in China.

China seems a long way from Staffordshire Moorlands. Those who are older will remember it as the country ruled over Chairman Mao. Hundreds of thousands died of hunger during the Cultural Revolution as agricultural production was disrupted. Today, it's good to see China emerging as a more prosperous country and becoming a major world power.

Yet, being a world power means that the spot-light is upon it, especially in the year it hosts the Olympics. It must expect the world to ask questions about its internal policies with regard to religious and civil freedom; its hostile attitude to the culture and religious life of Tibet's traditional inhabitants; its support for repressive regimes like Burma and the murder of Black Africans in the Darfur Region of the Sudan; and its policy with regard to CO2 emissions.

This is a long list. No doubt the Chinese government will say that these questions are purely internal matters. It will also ask, and rightly so, searching questions about the west and its engagement with the wider world. Despite this, we aren't separate from China and justice has no boundaries. We use Chinese products. Our environment is affected by Chinese decisions. Many people in many countries have their lives shaped by the decisions made in Beijing.

Christians in Britain will remember our fellow Christians in China, both those in the "officially authorised" churches and in the unofficial churches. For some Christians and some people of other faiths the Chinese state is still repressive. Too many are in jail either for their direct religious beliefs or the political views which stem from their beliefs.

So we engage in the long slog of praying for China, signing Amnesty cards, and applying political pressure. God's work of change often comes because an awkward squad aren't prepared to accept things as they are. My reading of the Bible, is that God is the Life-President of that awkward squad - and invites us to be members of it, too!

With warm greetings,

Colin Smith

We record with much regret the death of Mrs. Thos. Oliver. who, before her comparatively recent removal to Boosley Grange had been one of the most generous and regular attendants at our Church. Bodily affliction had struck her hard of late, and from that point of view her death was a merciful release.

God give her rest, refreshment, light and peace. Her husband and children have our deepest sympathy.

Tuesday's Sewing

Skirt.—When making a skirt, close both sides with zip fasteners instead of just one side. This not only looks smart, but the skirt can be worn back to front. This avoids "seating" the skirt, and there is no shiny patch through always sitting on the same part.—MRS. E. SMITH.

Jumper.—When knitting a jumper or cardigan, I always commence the sleeves from the shoulder; in this way they can be so easily lengthened, or the cuffs re-knitted when worn.—Mrs. DAVIES.

Wednesday's Nursing Substitute for ice.—It is not always possible to obtain ice when needed for an invalid. An excellent substitute is one part of milk and one of spirits of wine. Mix together and soak a cloth in it. Then use as you would the ice. It is for external application only.—Miss V. MANNERING.

From the Diocese

Community Spaces, a new £50m Lottery-funded grant programme, has just been launched. It will provide grants and support to community groups wanting to make their neighbourhoods cleaner and greener. Community Spaces will help local people improve and create play areas, community gardens, parks, wildlife areas, ponds, courts, village greens and churchyards. It is funded through the Big Lottery Fund and will make grants of between £10,000 and £49,999 - with some limited grants of up to £450,000. The small and medium grants will be available until January 2011. Applications for the large and flagship grants will be open from summer 2008. Not-for-profit community groups based in England are eligible to apply, including church-based and faith groups. Projects must be within two miles of a residential area and open to the public. Connecting Faith and Work

The Black Country Urban Industrial Mission (BCUIM) DVD has been sent out to all rural deans, archdeacons and bishops, and many others besides! BCUIM hope you will see it and ask the questions of your parish: "How could we visit our local workplaces as part of our outreach"? And: "How could we help members of our congregation make better connections between their faith and their work"? The DVD addresses industrial/workplace chaplaincy and the connection between "Church" and "Work" and is of relevance outside the Black Country and in rural as well as urban settings.

To view the DVD ask to borrow your rural dean's copy or seek your own copy for your parish. You can also watch it on YouTube (in two parts) at youtube.com/DrakeGavin. There is also a study guide on the BCUIM website: bcuim.co.uk.

The BCUIM are keen to hear from anyone who is doing workplace visiting in places other than the Black Country so they can share experiences. And they are holding an exploration session: "Connecting Faith and Work" on Wednesday 30th April at St Luke's Church, Selborne Street, The Chuckery, Walsall WS1 2JN from 12.00 Midday until 4.00pm starting with lunch. The day costs £7.00, which includes the lunch.

For more details contact the Revd Olwen Smith in the BCUIM office on 01902 710407 or e-mail enquiries@bcuim.co.uk.

Mission Shaped Ministry One Year Course

The first Mission Shaped Ministry one year training course, run by Lichfield Diocese in conjunction with Wolverhampton and Shrewsbury and Stoke and Chester Methodist Districts, is currently under way and feedback from the first 30 participants has been very encouraging. The training course will start again from 20th September 2008.

It will equip leaders and potential leaders of fresh expressions of church and is for clergy, church leaders, teams and anybody involved in, or exploring, a pioneering initiative in mission.

The year-long programme consists of six evenings at a choice of two local venues (Stoke and Telford), three Saturdays held centrally in Stafford and a residential weekend. During the year participants will complete 24 units ranging from a theology of mission to sustaining a fresh expression. Participants will be coached through the process of setting up a fresh expression and will form lasting learning networks to ensure the health and growth of fresh expressions. Teachers this year have included the Revd Dr Steve Croft, Archbishop's Missioner; and Bob & Mary Hopkins, from Anglican Church Planting Initiatives ; as well as pioneers and local leaders.

The cost per participant is £300 which includes all the course notes, refreshments at all the sessions including lunch on the Saturdays and the residential fees. To book a place, or for further information, please contact the course administrator, Mrs Diane Woolridge, on 01785 824965 or e-mail diwoolridge@btinternet.com. Further details, including a booking form, can also be downloaded from the Going for Growth section of the Intranet - intranet.lichfield.anglican.org/growth.

A celebration of Church / School links will be held at 7.00pm on Tuesday 3rd June in St Michael's CofE(c) First School's Hall, Weavers Lane, Stone. The evening will focus on the 'Adventurers' out of hours Christian Club which is supported and funded jointly by the school and the congregations of St Michael and St Wulfad, Stone with St Saviours, Aston. There will be an opportunity to meet some of the members, helpers and leaders of the club. The evening will show a 'snapshot' of the work that has been done and is ongoing. There will be a buffet supper and it is hoped that this will be a time for people to chat and share ideas. There will be a collection of resources on display and also a basic resource pack with suggested programs, ideas, useful contacts etc available to purchase (at a cost of £10.00).

This celebration marks the conclusion of a Farmington Fellowship grant from the Harris Manchester College of Oxford University. If you would like to attend or order a resource pack, please contact Paula Lloyd by e-mail: paula.lloyd@lichfield.anglican.org.

Faith groups in Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent contribute more than £4.4 million each year in volunteer hours, according to a social action faith audit carried out by the Saltbox Christian Centre and the Diocese of Lichfield working with the Chester & Stoke-on-Trent Methodist District, Staffordshire Consortium of Infrastructure Organisations, Staffordshire County Council, Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service and the West Midlands Faiths' Forum. Some 551 projects took part in the audit which, in addition to Christian churches, included Muslim, Sikh, Buddhist, Baha'i, Hindu and multi-faith groups. The findings show that, when combined with the Stoke-on-Trent audit, some 64,000 people use faith-based community facilities each week. The facilities include Mums and Toddlers' groups and after-schools projects for children, detached work with young people, lunch clubs and activities for the elderly and support for vulnerable people, including the homeless, ex-offenders and refugees and asylum seekers. Full details of the Staffordshire audit, together with the earlier Stoke-on-Trent faith audit, can be seen online at saltbox.org.uk.

The St Jude's Hostel Fund was established by investing the proceeds of the sale of a hostel in Wolverhampton. The annual income of the fund is used for the "care and relief of young persons resident within the Diocese of Lichfield who are under 18 years of age, including the prevention of youthful delinquency and the rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents" In practice, this means that modest grants (average £250, maximum £500) are available for church-based clubs and similar projects, and supporting church-sponsored holiday places for children and young people. Any parish-based Christian work with young people will be considered, especially in socially deprived areas. Further details and an application form are available from Mrs Jean Overton, St Jude's Hostel Fund, St Mary's House, The Close, Lichfield, WS13 7LD; or e-mail: jean.overton@lichfield.anglican.org.

Applications should be returned to Jean Overton by the end of May each year for mid-year projects, but applications at other times are acceptable.

The Independent on Sunday is planning a campaign celebrating the life and work of people who have made stunning contributions to their community and society at large. They are looking for potential nominees who have dedicated themselves to benefiting others. As an example, they're thinking of people like Mr and Mrs Whitbourn from York (recently honoured with an MBE for services to their community) who devoted 28 years to fostering 74 children or Anne Glover from Leicester who almost single-handedly transformed her crime-ridden estate into a safe a propseperous neighbourhood. However, we are also eager to show that there are fun and alternative ways to promote happiness and well-being (i.e. story tellers, clowns, fitness/yoga instructors who give free lessons, comedians or individuals who use comedy and fun as a means to raise money for good causes and so on). Please be as free as you like in interpreting the brief and coming up with suggestions. The newspaper says they aim to "simply to bring into light interesting and inspiring stories that might help to promote the ideals of selflessness and public enrichment." If you would like to nominate anybody from your community please contact George Webster at the Independnt on Sunday on 020 70052630 or e- mail webstergeorgey@gmail.com.
