From the Vicarage

Dear Friends,

As I write this letter the memory of the riots in various cities at the start of August is beginning to fade, though there is still discussion about the severity of the sentences being handed down. Of course, it is rather remote from our situation; if there was a riot in Longnor, or at Flash or Sheen, or even at Reapsmoor, I seem to have missed it! In the aftermath of the events there have been questions about how there can be a new awareness of what is right and wrong, a new awareness of, and respect for, rules and discipline.

Every society and every faith has its own rules and regulations, and we need this because all human beings are prone to sin. If we were all perfect then there would be no need for laws; instead we need those who set laws and those who try to enforce them. Inevitably, even those who are law-makers and law-enforcers suffer from the same tendency to sin, so we should not be surprised when the system does not work as fairly and justly as it might, but I think we should be grateful for the high standard of justice and policing that we have in our country, even if there is always room for improvement.

How might people generally be helped to know what is right and wrong? I can remember having to learn the Ten Commandments when I was younger, and I suspect that many of you, especially those who are older, will have had to do the same. It was common for churches to have the commandments displayed at the front of the building to remind people week by week. I have to admit that I would probably not get all ten right if I was asked to repeat them now; how would you get on? But whether it is the commandments, which both Christians and Jews see as important, or equivalent rules in the Muslim or Sikh faiths, for example, it is one thing to know what they are, and another to actually take them seriously. I suspect what is missing for some of the young people who got into trouble is not knowledge but a sense of respect for authority. If you do not believe in God, for example, there is no value in being taught commandments that are based on the authority and holiness of God. So perhaps the riots are a challenge to us to work at bringing a renewal of faith to our society.

One opportunity that we can take that might encourage renewed faith is to make use of 'Back to Church' Sunday, a national initiative that we tried for the first time last year and which happens on the last Sunday of this month. In each of the churches there are invitation cards available, which can be used to encourage people to attend one of the services on the 25th (or for Newtown and Reapsmoor a service near that date). And if no-one else from the churches invites you, then please accept this letter as my invitation to come and worship with us on that Sunday, at Sheen at 10.00, or Quarnford at 2.30, or Longnor at 6.30. At Quarnford and Longnor that is also our Harvest Festival so there is a double reason to consider coming along and sharing in the time of thanksgiving and celebration.

As we give thanks to God for the safety and security that we enjoy and this month also rejoice in the harvest, perhaps the memory of the unrest of a few weeks ago will inspire us to pray for a renewing of faith in God in our land.

With best wishes to you all,

James Forrester

Your Rural Police News

From mid June to mid July this year we have suffered a marked increase in crime across a number of the villages reached by this newsletter.

Criminals are mainly targeting vehicles and outbuildings (sheds, garages and barns) with some vehicles left insecure and an invitation to the thieves.

Although our area enjoys a relatively low crime rate, this recent spate confirms we are not immune and a timely reminder to secure your vehicles and if you are unable to remove valuables at least put them out of sight.

Criminals know that some people keep expensive items in outbuildings so ensure these are kept secure and checked on a regular basis. Please be extra vigilant and report any suspicious activity to us.

If you need any advice or assistance with your security contact one of your officers or our specialist Crime Reduction team on the number below.

In response to the above we have increased patrols in the relevant areas and are gathering intelligence on suspects. We also work closely with our partners at the local Council to do all we can to reduce crime in our communities.

In the last few days we have arrested two men from Stoke on Trent in connection with vehicle crime in our villages.

By the time you read this your local Police team will have moved from Waterhouses to the community fire station on the main road through Ipstones. If you are passing you are welcome to call in but please don't make a special journey as it will not be permanently manned and we try to be out on patrol or dealing with incidents as much as possible.

If you need any advice on Policing issues contact myself Pc Andy Beresford or one of my colleagues at Ipstones Fire Station; Pc Bridget Kelly, Pc Paul Bolam or PCSO Paul Flowers.

For non-emergency matters contact us on 0300 123 44 55 asking for your local officers.

If I'm not in the office you can leave me a voicemail message. I check this every duty day. You can also email me on andrew.beresford@staffordshire.pnn.police.uk

In the event of an emergency you should always ring 999 and even if there are no Ipstones officers available there is continual 24 hour cover from one of our neighbouring stations.

CHRISTMAS CHILDREN 2011

The Buxton and Longnor Chernobyl group are planning to invite six children (4-6) yrs , their mums and interpreter to Longnor for three week's recuperative holiday, Christmas 2011. The children come to England from the Minsk cancer hospital, through a partner charity, Children in Trouble. This organisation specialises in supporting children with cancer and their families.

They usually arrive a week before Christmas and spend the first few days with Denis Moors at High Ash Farm, Field Study Centre, Longnor. Then they move on to hosting families, it is quite exciting and magical for a mother and child to spend the main Christmas days (Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Boxing Day) with an English family in their home. They return to High Ash for the remainder of their holiday. CCP is looking for volunteer families to take a mother and child for four days, Christmas 2011.

If you are interested in participating in this project then please contact Barbara Cox at 01298 83225 or Denis Moors 01298 25727 for further details.

Please let Barbara or Denis know as soon as possible if you are interested. An early start helps the organisers enormously as the official paperwork for the visas takes several weeks to go through the agonisingly slow processes.

Church Clock

As we said in last month's magazine, we are pleased that our application for a major grant for the work on the clock has been approved. The Cumbria Clock Company has been awarded the contract and should be starting work towards the end of this month. The work will be the repainting of the clock face and hands, fitting an automatic winding mechanism for the clock, and refurbishing the weather-vane. We look forward to the work starting and then seeing the result several weeks later.

The church will have to find half the cost of the work, but we already have been promised support from the Action Group and have been given a donation in memory of Connie Gould. Any further gifts will be gratefully received.

Longnor Playground - Grand Opening and Refurbishment

On Saturday, 10th September Longnor Village, near Buxton has a double celebration both of which have only been achievable through much appreciated funding from the National Lottery. St. Bartholomew's Fayre, which had to be cancelled due to the snow last Christmas, has been rescheduled to take place between 11.00 a.m. and 4.00 p.m. There is going to be a good variety of stalls from jams and pickles to candles, cakes and jewellery. Children can enjoy go-karting and entertainment as varied as a fire juggler to a stilt walker to a balloon modeller. The Bucking Bronco is for adults and children of all ages.

Following straight on from the Fayre is even more family fun and most of it free - just what is needed in these recessionary times! Longnor Action Group in conjunction with St. Bartholomew's School, the Parish Council and the local community were delighted when they were awarded a grant of almost £50,000 to refurbish their playground.

The playground has stunning views across the Upper Dove Valley and now boasts a new aerial run, a superb swing boat, stunning supa nova, climbing frame, springy see-saw, small but fantastic fire engine - especially important as the playground is right next door to the fire station, a spinning cup and brand new swings which complement the refurbished slide.

Children are being asked to dress up as their favourite character, or simply to bring along their favourite bear / cuddly toy. Our wonderful fire-fighters will be present with the fire engine and are bringing Welephant and Fireman Sam with them! Charlie Clown will be performing his amazing magic show as well as demonstrating plate spinning, face painting and fake tattoos! Children can plant a seed (and take it home), take part in glass painting, make a mask and much much more! There's even a horrible history walk and drinks and refreshments will be available. Prizes will be given for the most original costumes and also for the winners of the scarecrow competition which will be judged at the beginning of the week - but you will still be able to take a wander around Longnor's historic centre to view the scarecrows.

Children why not come and bring your parents to join in the fun. Longnor waits to welcome you.

PUBLIC MEETING IN FLASH ABOUT BLACK BROOK FOREST

The Staffordshire Wildlife Trust (SWT) have agreed to hold a public meeting about their plans for Black Brook forest. This is the new name for the Gib Tor and Brund Hill woods next to the A53 near The Winking Man and opposite the Royal Cottage. You may remember the last public meeting about the trees called by Forest Neighbours in 2003. This resulted in 8 years of negotiation by local people with the Trust, the Forestry Commission and many other agencies and local authorities.

Many of you signed the recent petition to the Forestry Commission because people were still concerned at the tree loss but to no avail. The Commission has given permission for further felling. Forest Neighbours have therefore asked the Trust to come and describe their revised plans to the community.

The new public meeting has been promised to take place this Autumn. It will be the Trust's opportunity to present their case which includes clear-felling almost 60% of the site. As the Trust is a charity dependent on public subsidy, it will be very important for local people to hear what they have to say and to hold them to account. No date has yet been set but we wanted to flag up the event well in advance. Keep a look out for details of time and place when they're posted, and tell all your friends and neighbours.

In the meanwhile, for more information contact Charlie Pickford (Forest Neighbours) on 01298 23887. Alternatively you can contact Helen Dale of the Staffordshire Wildlife Trust directly on 01889880112 . Helen Dale is the site manager for the woods.

From the Readership

A friend sent me this after the death of our much-loved little dog

Four-Feet by Rudyard Kipling

I have done mostly what most men do,
And pushed it out of my mind;
But I can't forget, if I wanted to,
Four-Feet trotting behind.

Day after day, the whole day through -- Wherever my road inclined --
Four-feet said, "I am coming with you!"
And trotted along behind.

Now I must go by some other round, --
Which I shall never find --
Somewhere that does not carry the sound
Of Four-Feet trotting behind.

From the Manse

My father was born in the village of Tansley outside Matlock and when he retired he went to live there. In his youth he was a nurseryman like his father and grandfather. As a boy I went there to visit my grandparents and I always knew that a part of me came from that northern, rural background. However, I was also Londoner.

I was born in Brentford and after that lived south of the Thames. As a youngster my parents had no qualms about me getting a train to spend a day at Lords watching the cricket or sometimes just to explore the city. It was and is an exciting place!

Forty-five years after I last lived there, as I watched parts of the city go up in flames and witnessed the looting of shops I felt the anger which comes when a place you love is trashed! Around the world, a great city which will next year host the Olympics, has had its reputation besmirched.

Already, people are piling in to provide explanations and there is no doubt that in our great cities there are people who feel they have no stake in the future and are willing to destroy the very towns and society on which they depend. Why they are so alienated will be discussed over the coming months and hopefully lessons will be learnt.

There is one factor which may not often be mentioned. It is the withdrawal of the church from many of our most deprived estates. It is sadly true that many Methodist churches have closed on the estates where they have existed for many years. Why? As in rural areas and urban areas, they have often failed to relate to the community around them. People have got older and died. On poor estates, the most able and go-ahead have often left when they got the chance.

What has been the effect? Whilst it was never the case that every child went to Sunday School or church youth club, nevertheless the Church helped to create communities where people felt they mattered and where certain values were absorbed. Some came to faith and helped provide Christian leadership in the wider community.

For five years I lived in Brierley Hill in the Black Country. During the 1930's the steel works closed for several years and many local industries laid off workers. There was mass unemployment and great hardship at a time when social security was meagre.

In a sermon at the church in Brierley Hill, I once suggested that violence and criminality was a consequence of poverty. After the service a posse of older women confronted me. They wanted me to know that in Brierley Hill in the 1930's there was no violence and very little criminal behaviour. The Methodist chapels and other churches had created an atmosphere in which people supported each other, watched over each other's children, lived by values of respect for oneself and others and helpfulness to those in need.

What the great faiths give to those who are open to them, is a framework of values within which to live. This doesn't mean that Christians don't struggle for social justice and better conditions. They do, but they recognise that justice for both rich and poor must go together with a sense of responsibility before God, towards one's community and deep within oneself.

Within our own community, I wonder by what values we will be living in another thirty years - Christian values or the values which lead to greed, bitterness, isolation and lack of self-control. At a time when the church is frail, what kind of church should we be for the sake of our community and what support might the community feel it wants to give to the church - for the sake of the future?

Christ's "Peace" be with you all. Colin
